CRUISERS NOW OFF SWATOW.

CITY STILL PREY TO RUMOURS.

ATTACK FROM AMOY SAID TO BE LIKELY.

"REDS" JOIN INVADERS.

Swatow, May 31.

Swatow has continued to be a prey to rumours for some days past, and one of the most interesting developments is a report that the three Northern cruisers which were here some days ago have returned and are said to be lying outside Double Island.

The port was supposed to be in process of being attacked by Fukien troops advancing from two directions. The Fukien Army, which had been repulsed from Chaochow-fu was said to be attacking again, their commander being General Chang Chin, whilst the other force was specially commanded to take the coast route from Amoy.

Two days ago it was even rumoured that Chaochow-fu had fallen and that the advancing army was only nine miles away on the railway line; and many expected that yesterday would be a crucial day. Nothing happened, and there is now a certain relief in the air.

Only a Feint?

What the truth about the Amoy force is no-one locally yet knows, but it seems certain that the attack on Chaochow-fu was only a feint. Travellers from Kayingchow report that General Chang Chin is taking his main force down through the Hakka hinterland towards Hweilchow, presumably to co-operate with the army which is reported to be advancing on that place from Kwangtung.

For the time being, Swatow and Chaochow-fu are being left alone, unless the threat from Amoy turns out to be a real one. In his advance General Chang Chin is said to have absorbed the 68-Communist bands under Tau and Mo, this, however, requires confirmation. It is probable, however, that those bands and others less notorious will be glad to take service with recognised troops, and at once wipe out the official memory of their misdeeds, and secure a more certain livelihood than that of raiding the unfortunate towns.

Some Communist Trouble.

It was expected that with the breakdown of local authority there would be Communist trouble, and to some extent this has been so. It has, however, only been incidental to their joining in the larger movement. Some of the Fungshan Communists are reported to have gone to the river above Kaying, others to have gone up the Han River. The result has been to leave both Fungshan and Kiting districts unexpectedly quiet.

The soldiers of the Defence Commissioner are still up at Chaochow-fu. They made elaborate preparations for a retreat, having had a bridge of boats put over the river at Kit-yang to facilitate their retreat on that place from Chaochow-fu, and having a thousand burden-bearers in custody at Chaochow-fu in readiness.

Probably General Chan Chin sent a sufficient force up to the neighbourhood of Chaochow-fu to immobilise what troops there might be here, and cover his move through the country towards Hweilchow. In that case, he successfully hoodwinked the local people. The threat from Amoy will, however, still keep them in some trepidation.

May 30th Anniversary.

May 30th has passed off without incident or demonstration. It has been kept as a holiday and the Post Office and other public offices, including the Customs, were closed. The aspect of the town was not much different from the previous day, for on both the larger shops which have sliding iron gates across their breadth were kept closed except for a narrow aperture at the door.

Yesterday, when apprehension was greater, the banks were closed. To-day, although a holiday only some of the banks were open; but the town was quiet.

The office of the Defence Commissioner has put out slogans denouncing Chiang Kai-shek as

NO VERDICT IN THE MORRIS CASE.

JURY FAIL TO REACH AGREEMENT.

DAMAGES SUIT AGAINST GAOL GOVERNORS.

LEGAL ARGUMENTS.

London, May 8.

The King's Bench Division jury considering the action brought by Mr. Hayley Morris against Captain Winter, the Governor of Portsmouth Prison, and Major Benke, the Governor of Pentonville Prison, claiming damages on the ground that he had been kept in prison a day after he should have been released, failed yesterday, after two prolonged sittings, to reach an agreement and were discharged.

Mr. Justice Horridge, summing up, referred to the statement put forward in the course of the defendant's case, that the forfeiture of five remission marks was not entered on Mr. Morris's "stage register" at the time, but was written in some time later.

"If it is correct that the forfeiture of marks was imposed on May 10, 1926," he said, "it is a very great pity that the 'stage register' was not properly entered up."

One Document.

"It is the one document which the prisoner has access to, and it tells him how he stands. It is the document which no doubt gives him a ray of hope in his imprisonment by informing him as to the time when he will be able to get out and be a free man again."

"In the case of this prisoner the 'stage register' was staring him in the face all this long time with this forfeiture not entered upon it."

"I can only say that one trusts that in the future more care will be taken in these prisons to see that the register does correspond with the other document, if that is the true version in this case."

The fact that no forfeiture of marks was entered up in the "stage register" in May, 1926, was an enormous point in favour of the contention of Mr. Morris that it was never inflicted.

"Searching Questions."

Of Captain Winter, said Mr. Justice Horridge, the Solicitor-General had remarked that the jury might perhaps be inclined to consider him rather a stupid witness. "I had to put some rather searching questions to Captain Winter," the Judge said, "because I wanted to get to the bottom of the matter. Whether he was speaking the truth or not is entirely a question for you."

Mr. Justice Horridge put the following questions to the jury:

(1) Did Captain Winter on May 10, 1926, in fact, order the forfeiture of five remission marks?

(2) Did Captain Winter give the plaintiff an opportunity of hearing the charge and evidence against him and of making his defence?

(3) Was Captain Winter actuated by malice in ordering the forfeiture of the marks?

(4) Did Captain Winter make a false statement in December, 1927, on the plaintiff's "stage card"?

(5) Did he make such statement on the card maliciously?

(6) Did he make such statement on the card with the intention of injuring the plaintiff?

(7) Was the statement made by Captain Winter on the plaintiff's "stage card" calculated to cause the plaintiff's detention for another day?

(8) Did it, in fact, cause his detention for another day?

(9) What damages, if any, is the plaintiff entitled to?

Three Hours.

After the jury had been absent for three hours, the Judge informed counsel that he had received a communication from them asking if their decision must be unanimous on all points.

The jury were then brought back into Court, and the foreman announced that they were disagreed on the first question, although they answered "Yes" to the second question and "No" to the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth questions.

Mr. Justice Horridge—it is difficult to see how they can return a verdict without answering the first question.

PIRACY IN CANTON DELTA.

ARMED MEN RANSACK A.P.C. LAUNCH.

NO EUROPEAN ABOARD

Canton, June 1.

The A.P.C. motor launch, Sai Kong, was pirated yesterday afternoon, Friday, in broad daylight on one of the busiest parts of the Delta.

The Sai Kong had left Canton in the morning, with a cargo of petroleum in cans on board and was proceeding to the West River, with Dosing as its destination.

The craft had passed through Hamilton Creek and was nearing Yungki when the pirates came on board. One large sampan was lying on each side of the river with a rope stretched between them; and the launch running into the rope drew the two sampans to her sides.

Several armed men boarded the launch which was unable to put up any resistance. Hurling the crew down into the cabin, they proceeded to go through all their clothing taking only the best of it, and what little money they had. They then proceeded to unload the cargo into the sampans and made off again.

The launch, which had no European on board, returned to Canton at 5 o'clock this morning.

This is the first piracy of an A.P.C. launch in the Delta for several years, and quite the first time that the pirates have removed the cargo.

The Sai Kong will leave Canton again with another load within a day or so, but will be escorted by a British gunboat.—Our Own Correspondent.

JAPANESE QUESTIONS TO BE TAKEN UP.

Shanghai, June 3.

Belated portions of the procession of special trains which have been coming to Shanghai from Nanking since the State burial of Dr. Sun, Yat-sen are scheduled to arrive to-day and to-morrow, bringing envoys and dignitaries.

On one of these will be the Japanese Minister, whose return forebushadows the reopening this week in Shanghai of the negotiations with regard to Treaty revision and the final adjustment of the Sino-Japanese issues.

Madame Sun Yat-sen, who arrived here yesterday, declines to grant any interviews.

HOW CANTON OBSERVED THE OBSEQUES.

Canton, June 1.

All Government offices and departments were closed to-day on the occasion of the burial at Nanking of the remains of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen.

In Shameen, all flags were at half-mast during the day and also on the foreign gunboats in port.

In the city, a three minutes' silence was to have been observed at noon, but actually there was no noticeable stopping of traffic or normal life, at least in the western part of the city.—Our Own Correspondent.

KING'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATIONS.

ILLNESS INTERFERES WITH OBSERVANCE.

IMPOSING MILITARY PARADE IN HONGKONG.

CITY ROUTE MARCH.

To-day is the 64th birthday of His Majesty King George V., and the occasion is being celebrated in all parts of Empire. Widespread regret is felt at the illness of His Majesty, and fervent hopes are everywhere being expressed that he will soon be restored to health.

In Hongkong this morning, there was an imposing military parade at the Cenotaph, after which the troops participating had a route march through Chinatown.

A British wireless message from London states that owing to his illness, His Majesty will be unable to attend the annual ceremony of the Trooping of the Colours on the Horse Guards Parade. His place will be taken by his uncle H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, who will be attended by the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and Captain Viscount Lascelles.

The Hongkong Parade.

This morning's King's Birthday parade proved a fitting observance of the anniversary on the part of the Colony, and, while colourful in the extreme, was hardly as spectacular as the parade last year, although on similar lines.

This year aeroplanes played no part in the proceedings, this presumably being due to the fact that H.M.S. Hermes is now at Weihaiwei with a number of the planes usually stationed at the Kai Tak aerodrome. To-day's parade also differed in that the commanding officers of the various units were not mounted on their chargers.

The crowd began to assemble near the Cenotaph at an early hour and by 9.30 there were several thousand people present. As usual, the verandahs of the Hongkong Club, the Supreme Court and those of neighbouring offices were used as vantage points.

Guards of Honour.

There were three Guards of Honour drawn up in Chater Road facing the Cenotaph, each comprising 50 men and being in charge of two officers, one carrying the colours of the regiment.

The guard from the 1st Battalion Somerset Light Infantry was drawn up nearest the Hongkong Club, that from the 2nd Battalion King's Own Scottish Borderers being in front of the Supreme Court with the Guard of Honour from the 3rd Battalion 15th Punjab Regiment on the extreme left.

The massed bands of these three regiments, together with the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps band, was drawn up in front of the Hongkong Club. The snarff was lined with four companies of the Somerset Light Infantry, each company being 120 strong.

Representative bodies at the Cenotaph included members of the Executive and Legislative Councils, the Consular Body, the British Mercantile Marine, the British Legion, Ex-Active Servicemen's Association, the Boy Scouts, including Sea Scouts, St. John Ambulance Brigade and Girl Guides.

Governor's Arrival.

His Excellency the Governor, Sir Cecil Clementi, K.C.M.G., arrived promptly at ten o'clock, being escorted by the Motor Cycle Section, H.K.V.D.C. He was accompanied by Capt. F. G. Sillitoe, A.D.C., Royal Marines, and immediately upon arrival joined Commodore R. A. S. Hill, R.N., H.E. Major General J. W. Sandilands C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O. General Officer Commanding, the British Troops, China, and their aid-camps. H.E. the Governor was also accompanied by his two honorary A.D.C.s from the Indian regiments.

The command to present arms was given to the three Guards of Honour and the Royal Salute was played by the massed bands. His Excellency the Governor and other officers then inspected the guards, after which he took up his position in front of the Cenotaph.

A Royal Salute was then fired from Murray Parade Ground by

NEW PARLIAMENT PROBLEM.

CONSERVATIVES MAY FORM GOVERNMENT.

LIBERAL-TORY BLOC.

London, June 2.
The Conservative Mr. Macquisten retained the Argyll seat.
London University returned the Independent, Dr. Graham Little.
Cambridge University returned two Conservatives, Messrs. G. H. Wilson and J. J. Wilkies.
Caithness and Inverness returned Liberals, Sir Archibald Sinclair and Sir Murdoch MacDonald.—Reuter.
Stalemate and Doubt.
London, June 1.
Stalemate with the accompanying spectre of a continuously imminent dissolution, is the problem whose successful solution will need a more accommodating spirit between the parties than has hitherto been evident.

It is agreed that Mr. Baldwin, with a reconstructed Cabinet (for seven Ministers have been ejected) must meet Parliament on June 25, after which developments are very uncertain.—Reuter.
London, June 1.
The 1923 precedent is not entirely applicable to the present situation, inasmuch as on that occasion the Conservative Party being in the course of awaiting the defeat in the House of Commons of Labour, a no confidence vote was then the obvious one to take.
The Prime Minister will, it is said, reconstruct the Ministry and form a new House of Commons with a programme of work to be accomplished during the session before summer, and await action by the Opposition parties.—British Wireless.

The Leaders' Views.
London, June 2.
Mr. J. Ramsay MacDonald, interviewed by Reuter in London, declared that if he could prevent it there would be no disturbance of the country by an election within the next two years. He thought Parliament ought to last even longer, but emphasised that the Labourites were not going to submit to any unfairness.

Whatever Government was going to make itself responsible for national affairs it ought to have a chance to develop its policy. "The way they broke the development of my policy as Foreign Secretary in 1924 is a thing that ought not to happen again. I was only able to start it and then leave it to others to develop. That they did, in regard to Locarno and the admission of Germany into the League of Nations, then the whole policy dropped. I do not think that was fair or in the interests of the country."—Reuter.

Press on the Situation.
London, June 1.
There is a conflict of opinion as to whether the Premier thereafter ought to carry on as long as the Liberals will accord active support or whether he should immediately hand over the reins to the Labourites as the biggest party. In any case a very heavy responsibility will devolve "upon the handful of Liberals," which party is the object of the bitterest attacks.

Conservative papers argue that Liberal intervention in hopeless constituencies not only contributed to a Labour victory but ejected some of the most promising young Conservatives.

The Morning Post says that Mr. Lloyd George may flatter himself as to holding the balance of power, but he will duly discover that it will not bring consolation for the political discredit of his adventure. The Government's situation is unfortunately complicated by the illness of the King. "There is no other consideration to tempt Mr. Baldwin to remain in office for a moment

FAR EAST FLIGHT.

FRENCH AVIATORS IN INDIA.

Teheran, June 1.
M. Arrachand, the French aviator, has left for India.—Reuter.
[M. Arrachand, accompanied by Capt. Rignau, left Paris on May 25, on a flight to the Far East. They arrived at Teheran on the 29th.]

more than is necessary to the preliminaries of the change."
Another Election an Outrage.
The Daily Telegraph appeals to Mr. Baldwin boldly to reconstruct his Ministry and meet Parliament, not meekly extending his neck to the sword of the executioner but with a programme of useful non-controversial legislation, throwing upon the Opposition the responsibility of ejecting the Ministry.
"Another immediate election would produce the same result and would be regarded by the country as an outrage."
The Daily Mail says that by devoting most attention to the Liberal antagonists, the Conservatives have left its insidious Socialist enemy a free hand.

The Daily Mail demands that Mr. Baldwin should at once resign so that the leader of the largest party in Parliament may take up his work.
The Daily Express says that any Party that forgets the watchword "Nation First; Party Second" will be meted out a swift and formidable retribution.

No Cause for Despondency.
The Times blames the Liberals for creating a situation of great constitutional difficulty, but is of opinion that there is no cause for despondency or alarm. Ways have been found out of similar situations before and can be found again. The important thing is for the parties not to lose the sense of what is in the best interests of the nation.

The Liberal newspapers, while seeking consolation in the reflection of the improved quality of their new representation, do not provide a clue to the all-important question of the Party's future tactics.

The Daily Chronicle says that the unpopular, grossly inefficient Conservative Government was heavily defeated and that the Labour Party won in a fair fight. The latter are not entitled to override other parties but, as the biggest party, they are entitled to a corresponding hearing. "Nobody need assume that the days of the new House will be necessarily few and barren."

The Daily News says that the troubled career of the new Parliament will be full of fascinating interest. It will probably not be long-lived. The duty of men of goodwill and good sense is to work honestly and without meaningless bitterness and realise sound work for the public.

"Liberal-Labour Compromise."
The Liberal Manchester Guardian is of opinion that with Liberal help a government could be formed with a large enough majority to carry on comfortably for an indefinite period and that it is to be hoped, in the national interest, that Mr. Baldwin will carry on until defeated in the House, thus allowing time to explore the possibilities of a Liberal-Labour compromise.

The Daily Herald greets the Labour emergence as the strongest power for the first time in history by its uncompromising attack on all opponents, not forgetting the Communists, to whom "Industrial workers have meted out spiteful contempt." The newspaper calls upon Mr. Baldwin to resign in order that the people's chosen leader, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, may meet the House of Commons. It concludes: "The real logic of events must drive the real Tories and the real Liberals into the same camp."—Reuter.

London, June 1.
Commenting on the immediate results of the polling most newspapers express surprise at the proportions of the Labour votes.

BIG SHANGHAI BLAZE.

NEARLY 300 CHINESE HOUSES DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Shanghai, June 2.
A spectacular conflagration has startled the west end of Shanghai, when between two hundred and three hundred Chinese dwellings were destroyed, rendering about a thousand people homeless.
The Brigade has the fire under control.—Our Own Correspondent.

One says "Some advance of that party may be due, no doubt, to the studied moderation of its programme put forward by its electors, and the return in particular of Mr. Hermer, who has shown considerable courage in his promotion of industrial peace, will become a sign of the times. On all hands it is agreed that the first experience of adult franchise has not been disappointing, the votes having apparently averaged nearly eighty per cent. of the total electorate."—British Wireless.

Foreign Comment.
Paris, June 1.
While the Radicals and Socialists of France rejoice at the success of the Labour Party in the British elections, the French Conservatives and moderates regret the possibility of the retirement of the Baldwin Cabinet, but find consolation in the reflection that the British Labour Government will not desert the traditional defence of British Imperial policy, including the Entente cordiale, while Mr. MacDonald is regarded as personally friendly toward France.—Reuter.

German Opinion.
Berlin, June 1.
Such a staggering Labour victory in the British elections was not expected in Germany. The newspapers mostly refrain from comment pending the clearing up of the situation.
The Local Anzeiger, however, is of the opinion that under the MacDonald Government no fundamental changes in British foreign policy are likely.—Reuter.

America Silent.
Washington, June 1.
Officials decline to comment publicly on the result of the British elections, but it is the general opinion that the MacDonald Government will give an impetus to the programme of naval reduction.—Reuter.

Moscow Jubilant.
Moscow, June 1.
The Soviet press are jubilant at the defeat of the Conservatives in the British elections and forecast a revision of British foreign policy. They declare that the Conservative Government have been the centre of the anti-Soviet bloc and the instigator of organised attack on the Soviet.—Reuter.

Japan Intensely Interested.
Tokyo, June 1.
Intense interest is shown in the results of the British elections. The main points of speculation are the effect of a Labour victory on British policy towards the Soviet and disarmament, while Japanese politicians are primarily interested in the possible effects on the domestic politics of Japan. Social Democrats are particularly pleased with the "rightward" tendency of British Labourites and assert that the victory of British Labour will greatly hearten and strengthen the hands of moderates in Japan and assist the progress of the Japanese proletarian movement, which has been making steady progress since the grant of manhood suffrage in 1925.—Reuter.

Canada Predicts New Election.
Ottawa, June 2.
Another election within a year seems the general forecast in Canada on the British election results.
All the papers emphasise the "amazing" gain of the Labour vote.—Reuter.

Indian Disappointment.
Allahabad, June 2.
Mr. Motilal Nehru, president of the All-India Congress said he was unable to enlure over the victory of the British Labourites, "who are committed to the policy of the Conservative Government on the vital question of the Simon Commission."—Reuter.

Only a powder can exterminate them. PETERMAN'S ROACH FOOD is the right powder! Just one roach gets a little powder on his legs. Back to his nest he goes. He crawls over the others and eggs. Every roach he touches dies and disintegrates.

MAKE THE WILL TO SAVE THE DEED BY EFFECTING LIFE INSURANCE

How many men, having decided to save say £100 a year for 20 years, die after having accumulated only £200 or £300?

By investing the £100 a year in Life Insurance the will would have been taken as the deed and at death the savings would have been anticipated.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, the Foreign Secretary, whose majority was reduced from 7,643 to 43. He seemed annoyed with the Liberals on Friday night.

Miss Susan Lawrence, who retained her seat at East Ham, North, for the Labour Party. Miss Lawrence was one of thirteen lady M. P.s elected on May 31st, seven of them being new to the Commons.

Mr. Arthur Henderson, one of the most popular of the Labour members. He is accompanied into the new House of Commons by his two sons, William and Arthur.

Above is Lady Astor, the noted Parliamentarian, who retained the Conservative seat at Sutton. She is one of three Tory lady members.

Sir John Simon won the Spen Valley constituency for the Liberals in a four-cornered contest.

Miss Megan Lloyd George, daughter of the Liberal leader, who contested the Welsh seat of Anglesey and won her way into the Commons for the first time.

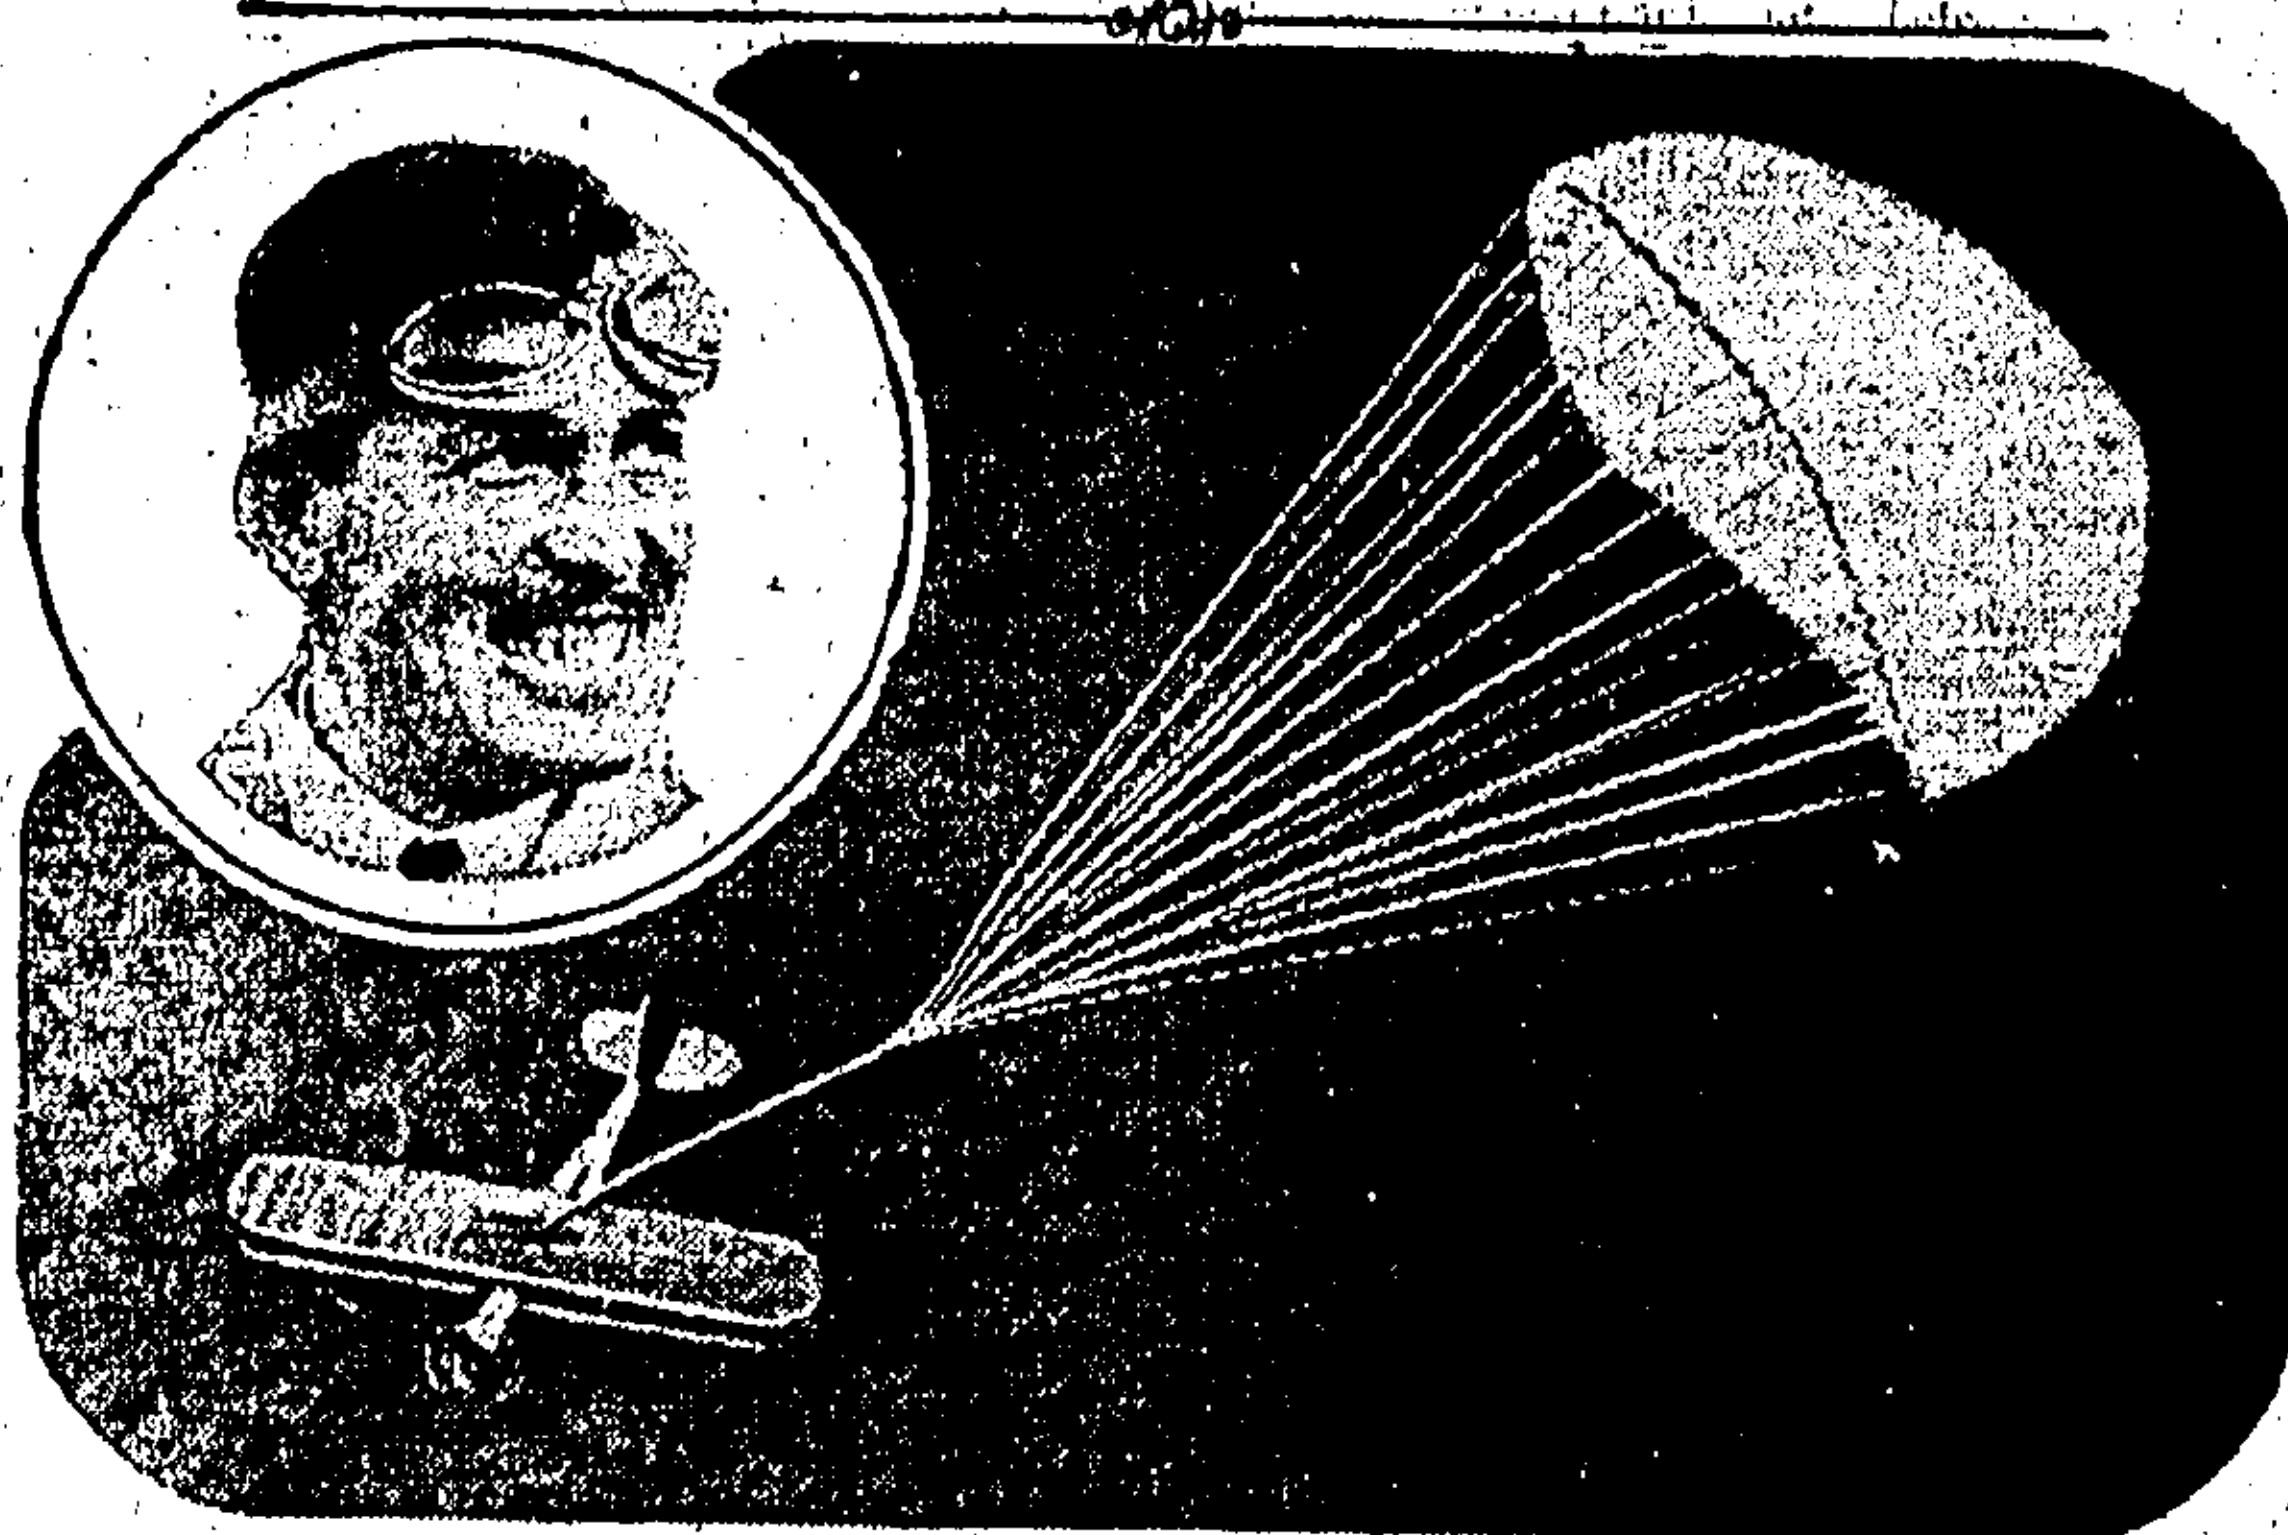

Sir Herbert Samuel, the Liberal Party organizer who won Darwin by a narrow margin.

Miss Janet Bondfield, the Labour lady member for Walsend, who retained her seat with ease.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary, retained his seat at Twickenham but by a reduced majority.

A new means of gaining safety in the air is shown exploited above. In the event of an aeroplane getting out of control a huge parachute is released. The demonstrator Captain Turner (inset) brought a machine safely to earth from 5,000 ft.

The Shanghai Press entertained to dinner by the Russian Merchants' Club recently.

Group taken after the wedding in Shanghai of Mr. A. Song, and Miss Mary Tau, both of whom are well-known Chinese residents.

"YOUR URGENT NEED IS A GOOD TONIC."
Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills!

Thousands of physicians know from experience gained in the course of their daily professional duties that in cases where the patient's need is tonic treatment nothing better exists than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. For forty years these Pills, originally the discovery and favourite prescription of an eminent medical man, an M. D. of Edinburgh University, Scotland, have held foremost place among the world's most famous restorative medicines.

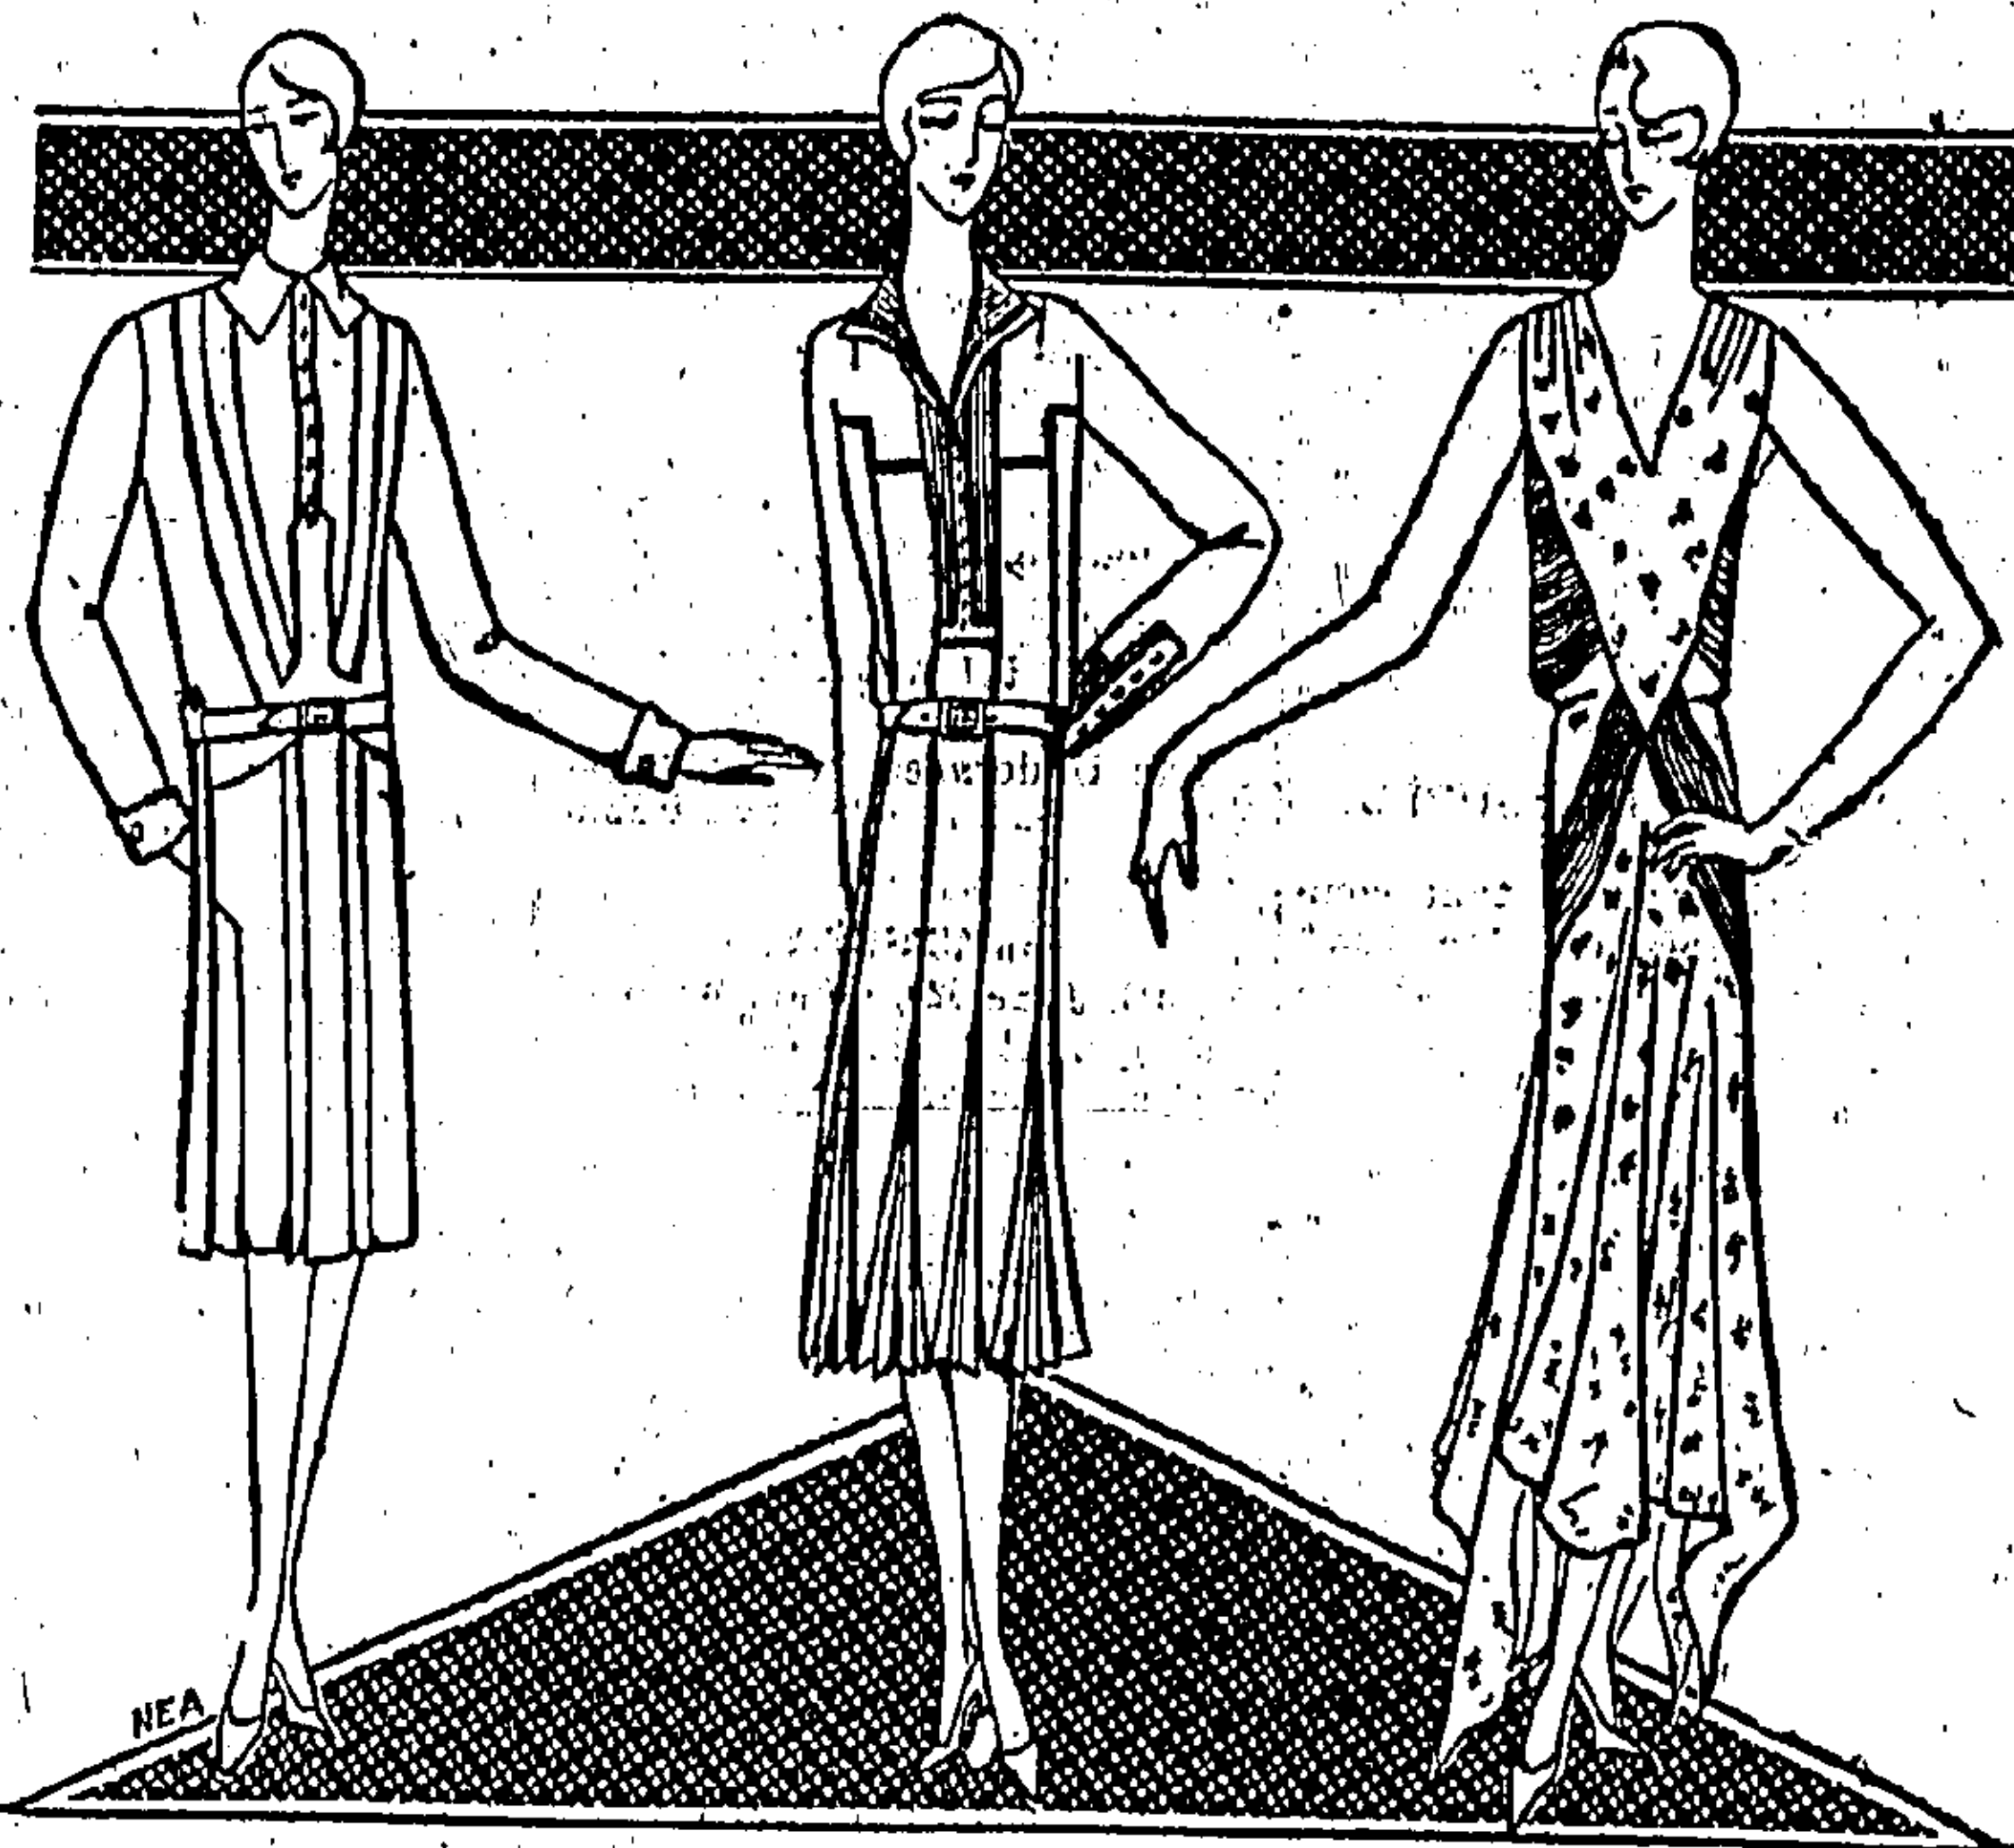

The reason for the permanent and ever growing popularity of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is this: they contain a number of ingredients every one of which is highly beneficial to the human organism, and one so especially important that, according to the highest medical authority, it is indispensable to life. It is the absence of this last mentioned constituent from their blood that causes so many people to suffer from anaemia and nervous disorders, and others to easily fall victim to rheumatism, influenza and maladies symptomatic of lowered vitality.

Equally good for men as for women, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills rapidly build up the blood and nerves, repair the ravages of malaria and other wasting diseases, restore health, strength and vital force. All chemists sell them, or post free, $1.50 per bottle, $8 for 6 bottles, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60, Kiang-se Road, Shanghai.

WOMAN'S WORLD

FOR OUR LADY READERS.

Patou's new frocks for different hours illustrate when skirts are long and short. (Left to right) A silver grey sheer woollen sports dress, with lingerie collar and vestee, is short as last season's frocks. An afternoon frock shows the in-between length that is correct for informal daytime wear. It is made of grey silk, trimmed with finely pleated linen vest and inset cuffs. All-the-way-down is correct for evening party gowns. This model comes in Patou's new colour, a vivid nasturtium. It is gorgeously designed in a darker shade of yellow.

Gentlemen Prefer Ladies.

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

Will the good year 1929 witness stage comedians doing parodies of hat-tipping? Will audiences roar with laughter if a man takes off his glove to shake hands with a lady?

Certainly there seems to be little to encourage chivalry among men today and if we do a bit of thinking it will not be difficult to discover the answer—answers, rather, for there are three of them and all three rest with the women themselves.

To begin with there is that over-anxious young person who desires to be looked upon as a pal by her male companions. It may be a mere gesture as a bid for popularity, or it may be a real desire to be a good fellow. Whatever the motive behind it, it is part of the round-robin that signs the death warrant of chivalry!

Then there is another type of modern woman whose ideas of life are real and earnest and who is more concerned with achievement than with manners. She asks of the other sex partnership and recognition and help rather than the less important, to her mind, amenities. She prefers to choose the masculine manner of concessions; gallantry of the old type is not important to her.

But a centuries-old custom is likely, even at that, to survive the indifference of a mere fraction of womanhood—a fraction that will remain for some time to come, I believe for I still maintain that most women are not rushing pell-mell into "modernism."

What may spell the death-knell of chivalry, the once cherished courtesies that women loved so

Concerning Curtains.

The very thing for curtains in a boy's bedroom are the modern "toiles de jouy." They are a sort of printed linen, and are usually in one colour on a white ground. Each design is produced in a variety of shades, all of which are pure and rich, clever and interesting, designed by well-known French artists.

The fishing and other sporting motifs of some will particularly appeal to boys.

They combine especially well with weathered or light oak, and are also most suitable for cottage decorations.

For bath-room curtains it is useful to realise that there are now a variety of special materials, both for the window and for surrounding the bath when the shower is in use.

If something of great delicacy is desired, there is the rubberised silk, deliciously fine and soft, in artistic shades.

For something more robust, American cloth is elegant and smart, and looks the right thing for the purpose. Of this there is a large range of colours.

Then there is the waterproofed casement cloth, which is simple and quite attractive.

well, is the present behaviour of woman themselves.

Certainly a man who has tipped his hat deserves more than an icy nod. Certainly a man who has rushed to open a door, deserves a gracious "thank you." A man who has lifted a suitcase or carried a bundle might be told that he is very kind, instead of a mere silent acceptance.

Will men stand for the you-owe-it-to-me-for-I'm-a-lady attitude forever? No. If men cease to be polite I believe that the greatest contributory factor will be that women have stopped being polite.

Fashion Notes.

FLATTERING SLENDERNESS OF EFFECT.

Graceful lines in models which are eminently wearable appear on the new frocks for summer. The wide shoulder-line, so important in the smartness of the new clothes, a conservative skirt length, and a placing of the waistline varied to harmonise with the design of the costume, are major points.

A practical amount of skirt fullness is let in with circular panels, skilfully draped wide pleats, and fine pleats. Pleated panels, which often have rounded or pointed forms, where they begin at the neckline, give a flattering slenderness of effect.

A number of frocks split at the sides or curved up in outline are shown, with an underskirt often contrasting in colour. Hemlines, longer in the front than at the back, appear in many of the evening frocks.

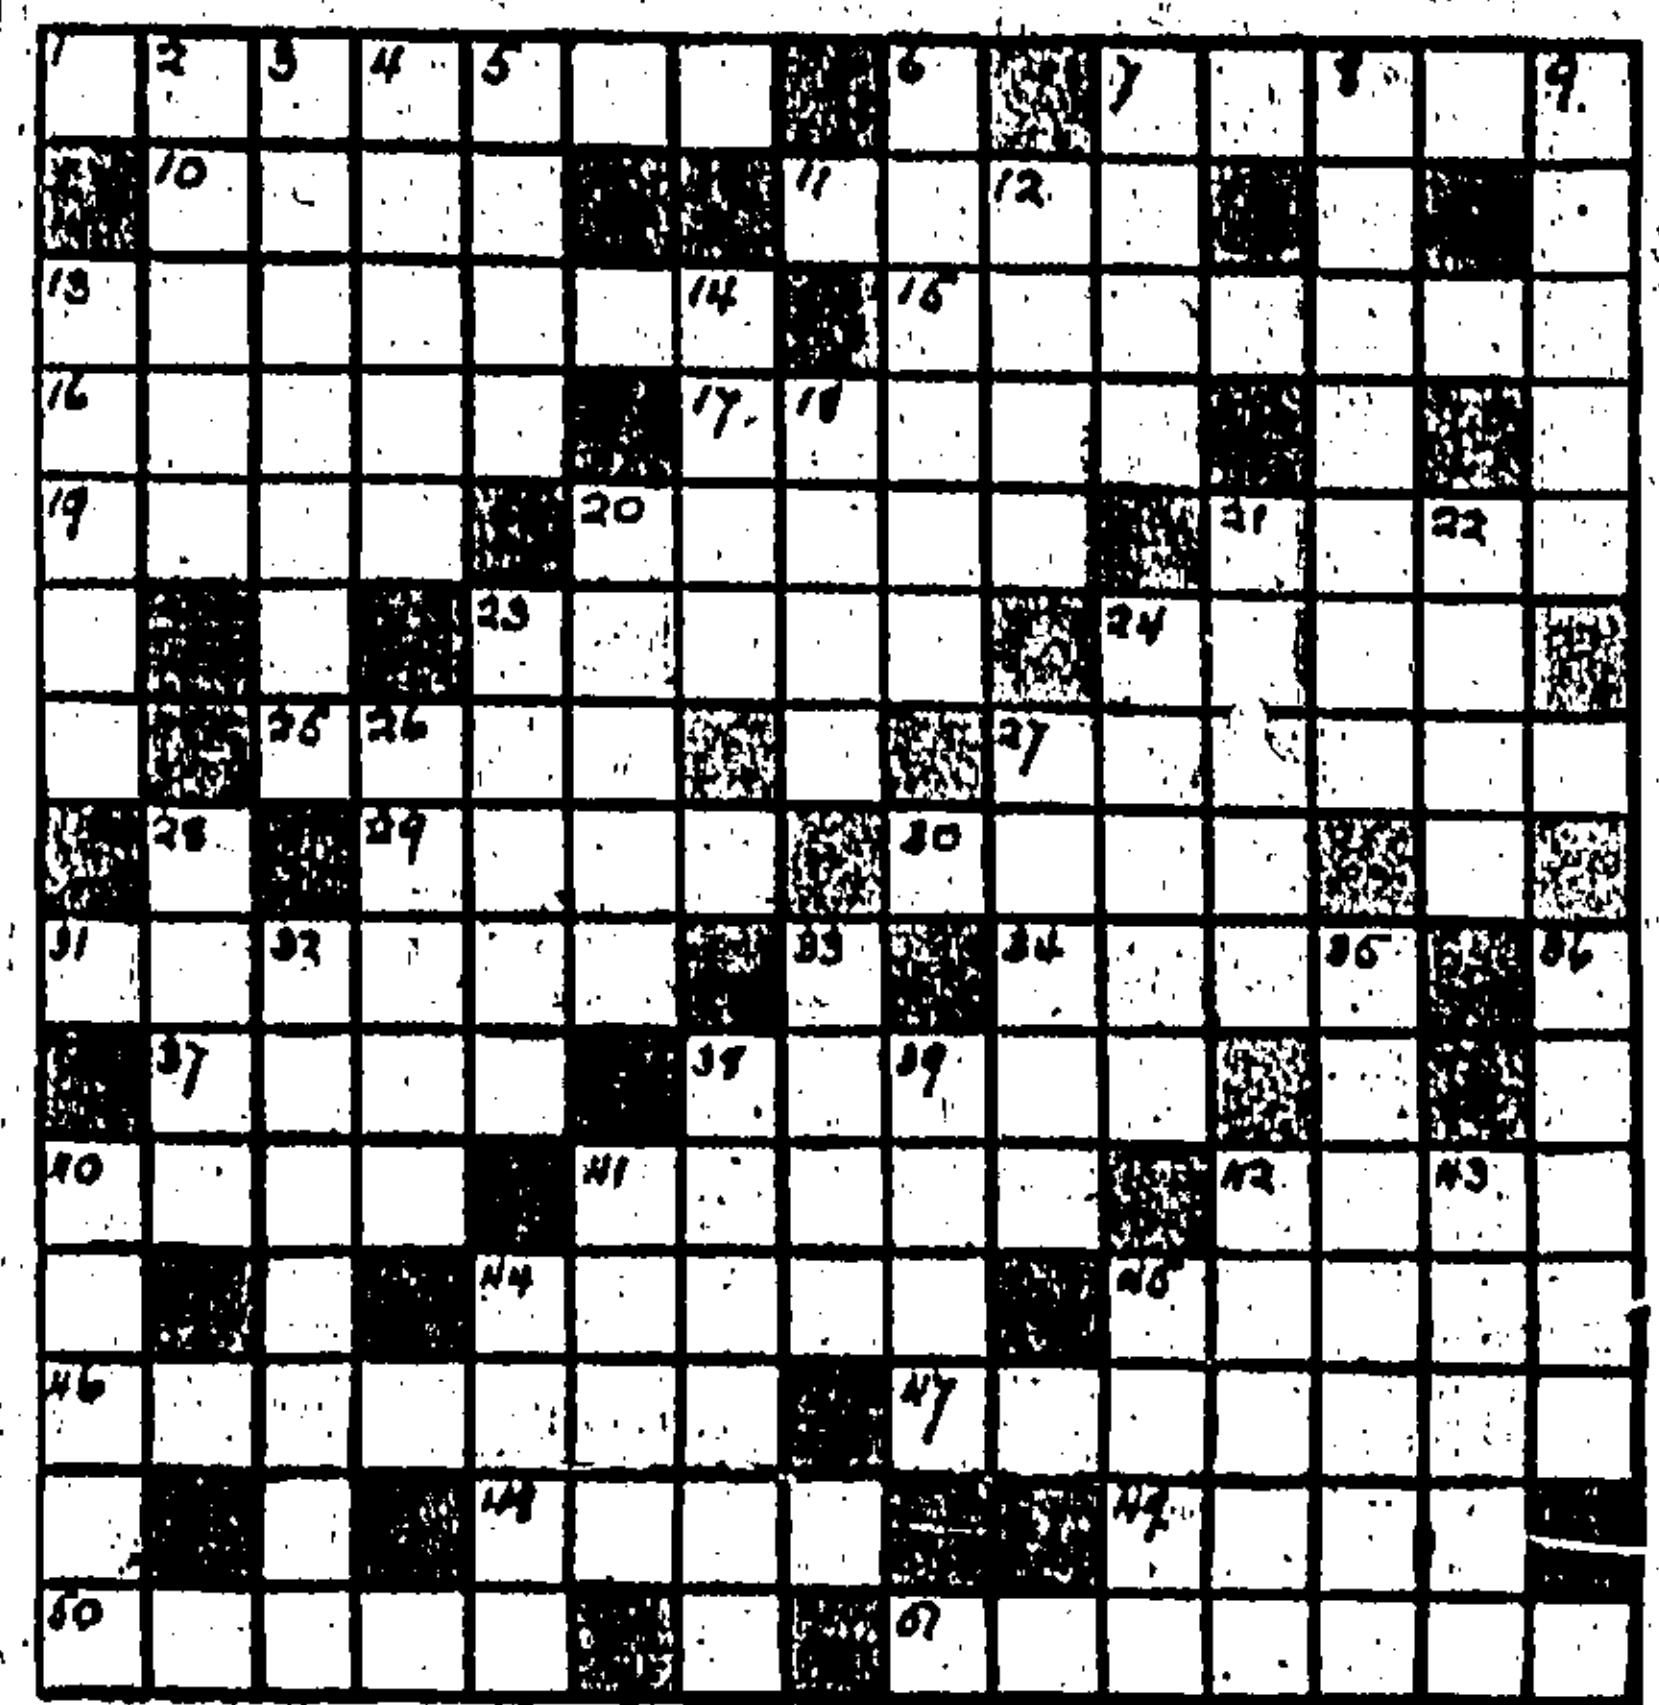

Open-work or hem-stitching is used to give variety to skirts hung over underskirts of contrasting colour. The "V" shaped neckline is often echoed in "V" shaped yokes in a pale tone of diaphanous silk.

A dress covered from top to hem with curved flounces, of alternating satin and crepe textures, is particularly novel. Contrasting belts, often of gold, offer a note of discreet brilliance. An evening gown of black tulle has charmingly spaced flounces edged with black tulle, and a single ornament of strass on the hip.

Evening coats with wide sleeves are often patterned with rich embroidery, one of black satin has sleeves and yoke embroidered with beads and branches of real coral set in a close design.

Another, in rich red, shows gold and silver embroidery, while yet another of beige and black georgette uses the red in a back panel, which joins the black in a maze of gold and silver patterns.

THE PEOPLE'S VERDICT.

One outstanding fact of the General Election at Home is that, for the first time in the political history of the country, Labour has secured the greatest number of seats in the House of Commons. When it went into power in 1924, it was in a minority of 67 compared with the Conservatives, but it was able to hold office for nine months owing to the support received from the Liberals. In the new Parliament which will soon meet, the Labourites, although numerically stronger than either of the other parties, will still need backing from the Opposition if, as is possible, they are called upon to form a Government. Without such backing, they could not last a day. The result of the election—Labour on top, but no party with a clear majority—is in accordance with our anticipations. It was evident long before the actual contest that the Conservatives would lose many seats, whilst, in spite of the tremendous effort made by Mr. Lloyd George and his followers, there were very few indications of the likelihood of a Liberal "come-back."

The anomalies of the British electoral system have once again been strikingly illustrated by the figures of the aggregate votes. These show that whilst Labour has secured most seats, it has had less support than the Conservatives, but, what is more to the point, that over 14,000,000 votes were cast against Labour candidates, compared with 8,000,000 in their favour. The Liberals have suffered most of all from this defect in the system, for with well over 5,000,000 votes it has to be content with just over 50 seats, whereas with 8,575,000 votes the Conservatives get 251 members, and Labour with 8,337,000 votes get 287 seats. Obviously, some measure of electoral reform is called for, and since all parties have, in recent General Elections, been hit by the present anomalies, we may reasonably expect the matter to receive attention in due course. The problem, however, is not an easy one to tackle, for, although it would be possible under a system of Proportional Representation to ensure that no candidate in a given constituency goes in on a minority vote, the scheme would not necessarily mean that a party would not be returned to office on such a basis. Another question which arises is whether it is not time Britain reverted to the two-party system. Viewing the Labourites as a progressive constitutional party, there is really little room left for the Liberals as a distinct political entity. In outlook, these two parties are for all practical purposes the same, and we can foresee the time when they must fuse. Such a development would help very materially to deal with the minority vote evil.

Viewing the situation as a whole, there is no need for perturbation at the possibility of a Labour Government, especially under the conditions which exist. We all have to rid ourselves of the idea that the official Labourites are dangerous extremists. They are nothing of the kind. They are men of progressive ideas, having the interests of the nation and the Empire at heart. Moreover, the responsibilities of office would naturally have their due effect. Facing a numerically stronger Opposition, they would have to avoid controversial issues if they wish to remain in power. But the most cheering aspect of the whole election is the evidence it has provided that Britain has no use for the "Reds." Not only did the Communists fail to secure a single seat, but twenty-one out of the twenty-five candidates had to forfeit their deposits, whilst in an electorate of 28,000,000 they could only muster 50,000 votes. Add to that the circumstance that more people voted for the Conservatives than for any other party, and the fact becomes all the more apparent that the Old Country is still sound at heart.

The King's Birthday.

The celebration by loyal subjects throughout the Empire to-day of the 64th birthday of His Majesty the King is to some extent embarrassed by the distressing news of a sudden interruption of His Majesty's restoration to complete health and strength. A shade of anxiety has been renewed in spite of assurances that the setback is just temporary and not to be regarded as serious, and it has been considered advisable to postpone the Thanksgiving Service fixed for June 16th. Birthday sentiments, will, therefore, be accompanied by renewed expressions of sympathy in his long and trying illness and loyal wishes for an early recovery. It was meet that the King's Birthday Parade in Hongkong this morning should be conducted on somewhat less ambitious lines than have marked the event in recent years, though the ceremony at the Centenary was perhaps more than ordinarily impressive. The day's greetings are none the less sincere because the outward manifestation does not consist of brilliant pageantry.

It can be said in all truth that His Majesty has never been in closer contact and sympathy with his people than he is to-day. The gallant fight which enabled him to overcome an illness of such severity excited the deepest admiration of all His Majesty's anxious subjects from the highest to the lowest, home and abroad, and he has gained a place in their hearts which he will always retain. The widespread loving solicitude with which the Royal Family has been surrounded in the months of trial has provided the most effective illustration of the solidarity of the British monarchy, and the realisation of this cannot be expressed in better words than those of the King in his Message to the Nation last month when he said:—"It has been an encouragement beyond description to feel that my constant and earnest desire has been granted—the desire to gain the confidence and affection of my people." It is now the earnest desire of his people that the check in His Majesty's progress will be of the shortest duration, and the prayer "God Save The King" will be echoed with deeper significance.

DAY BY DAY.

FRIENDSHIP IS THE GREATEST
LUXURY OF LIFE.—Edvard Halc.

Lady Clementi, wife of Sir Cecil Clementi, was to leave England for Hongkong in the Empress of Scotland on May 18.

Mrs. H. U. Ireland, Mr. C. Mitchell, Capt. and Mrs. E. Nelson Turner and Mr. J. W. Knott left on Saturday on the s.s. Katori Maru for Europe.

In our Pictorial Supplement on Saturday, we erroneously stated that M.W. Ho defeated the Straits player Khoo Hoo-hye in the singles interport game. In point of fact, the latter won.

The engagement is announced, and the marriage will take place in July, between the Rev. J. Francis Johnston, of Kowloon, and Kathleen, daughter of the late Mr. T. L. Duncan and Mrs. Duncan, Littlecroft, Osterley.

The late Mr. James McGregor Forbes, Forbes, formerly resident in China as representative of Jardine, Matheson, Ltd., at Swatow, left estate of the total value of £49,450 (personal estate in Great Britain, £44,865).

Passengers leaving on the Tandu for Australia included Mr. J. S. Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. I. Anderson; Mrs. Secombe, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Looney, Major A. C. Barry, Mr. J. Robinson, Capt. O. B. Wilks, Mr. D. Daniel, Mr. L. J. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnstone and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hutchinson.

Mr. B. R. Foster, formerly of Hongkong, was the co-respondent in a divorce suit filed by Mr. O. H. Farrar, a master mariner employed on the China Coast, on the ground of adultery of his wife with the co-respondent. The jury assessed the damages at £500. Mr. Justice Hill pronounced a decree nisi with costs.

4—Pre-Emptive Bids.

When to make a pre-emptive bid and when not to do so is explained in the following illustrative hands:

Hearts—K Q X; spades—A K X; diamonds—none; clubs—A K J—X X X X. This is a very strong hand. It holds support for either a spade or a heart bid. There is no necessity of pre-empting, as there is nothing to fear. Clubs may not be the best game going declaration. Encourage bidding on part of partner to determine best declaration. Encourage bidding on part of opponents, as you may collect large penalties. Bid one club.

Spades—A K Q X X X X; hearts—K; diamonds—Q X X; clubs—X X X. To pre-empt, bid three spades, to shut out a possible heart bid. If you were to bid one spade, it might encourage partner to show hearts, and you have no support for hearts.

Spades—X X X; hearts—X X X; diamonds—A Q 10 X X X X; clubs—X X. This hand does not contain two quick tricks. Pass. Novices are tempted to bid on such holdings. These are dangerous not because you may not make one or two diamonds, but because you may mislead your partner.

Spades—A K J 10 X X X X; hearts—none; diamonds—K Q X; clubs—X X X. This hand is blank in hearts. In all probability opponents hold great strength in hearts. Bid four spades to shut out all bidding. Hand is valueless for any other game-going declaration.

Spades—X; hearts—K Q J 10 X X X; diamonds—A J X; clubs—X X. This hand is weak in spades, and in all probability strength in spades is with opponents. A bid of three hearts may shut out bidding. Bid four hearts.

Spades—X; hearts—X X X; diamonds—A Q J 10 X X X X; clubs—A X. This hand is weak in both major suits. Bid five diamonds to shut out all bidding.

Spades—K J X; hearts—A K Q J X X; diamonds—K X; clubs—K X. This hand contains support for a spade bid. It may be more advisable to play it in spades. Some experts pre-empt when holding A K Q J X X, although suit does not contain seven cards. Bid one heart, as there is nothing to fear from opponents.

CORRESPONDENCE.

"For Men Only."

[To The Editor of Hongkong Telegraph.]

Sir,—I consider the time has now arrived when a definite portion of the Star Ferries should be set aside for "Men Only."

Living as I do in Kowloon I have to use the ferry and in the rush hours I am forced, more often than I care for, into the closest proximity with perfumed young women, clad in little more than bathing dresses.

In the hot weather or, for that matter in any weather, being compelled to sit knee to knee and side to side with strange and often attractive young women is, in my opinion, upsetting to impressionable men.—Yours, etc., MISOGAMIST.

Kowloon, June 2nd, 1929.

EXCELLENT FILM.

"WHITE SHADOWS OF THE SOUTH SEAS."

The film now showing at the Queen's Theatre under the title of "White Shadows of the South Seas," may be safely commended to the attention of picture fans, as being a story of considerable pretensions, both as regards the plausibility of its theme, and the general all-round excellence of its production.

Briefly, it tells of the undesirable contact of the natives of the South Seas with civilisation, a poignant note being struck in the unhappy conclusion of the story.

Exquisite scenic shots of the South Seas, as well as pictures taken of native life gives the production further educational interest.

"White Shadows" is being shown until Wednesday, according to a special advertisement.

Amsterdam, June 2. Jonkheer Hendrik Louden has been elected Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Royal Dutch Petroleum Company in place of the late Mr. Capadoc.—Reuter.

The Very Idea!

"There is no tax on marriage yet," declared the magistrate (Mr. W. B. Luke) at Willemsen Police-court recently, to a young man. The latter said:

"I have been living in a flat with my father, who is a widower. I am getting married, and, with my father's consent, I am bringing my wife home to the flat. The landlord has heard about it, and has notified my father that from the day I bring my wife in the rent will be increased by 10s. 6d a week."

The magistrate: That is absurd. You got married and defy your landlord. And certainly do not pay any increase in rent.

Applicant: But he says my wife will be a sub-tenant, and sub-letting will create a new tenancy.

The magistrate: Nonsense! A wife is no sub-tenant. She is bone of your bone, and flesh of your flesh. It is no business of a landlord if his tenant wishes to get married, and I advise you to take no notice of his threat to increase the rent.

Mr. Allen Lane, a director of John Lane, the Bodley Head (Ltd.), in a reminiscent lecture in London, told this tale:

Mr. Arnold Bennett, while in America, was inundated with requests for his autograph on copies of his books.

A queue was formed. One man, having got his book signed, taxied home, and returned with another. Mr. Bennett signed, and the man went home for a third.

Mr. Bennett, now a little tired, asked the man his name, and then wrote, "To Mr. Blank from his 'low old friend, Arnold Bennett.'"

(According to Miss E. Annet Robertson, youth is a greatly overrated period of life.)

When we were little girls and boys, and all the world was young.

With troubles sore and grief galore our youthful hearts were wrung;

Our little ears re-echoed the parental "You must not" from morn till night, and made us quite a pessimistic lot:

Through melancholy nouns and verbs we blindly tried to grope

And failed to see why "A" and "B" enjoyed such splendid scope.

Then came the dawn of riper years; we grew mature and sane,

So now we urge the same old dirge that "Youth's the golden age."

Woman at Glasgow—My daughter was as silent as a closed book, but her eyes spoke volumes. Willemsen Wife—My husband keeps a restaurant and all the food the children and I get is stale bread and bacon left by the customers.

A Welshman, accused at Lambeth of using obscene language, pleaded that in the "excitement of the moment" he lapsed into Welsh.

Woman at Willemsen—They kept me all night at the police station. Magistrate—Be thankful that you had such a respectable lodging.

Mr. Clarke Hall, the Old Street Magistrate, to man charged with theft—Do you want to be dealt with here? Man—I don't mind if you deal lightly with me.

Here is a story of Oriental logic. He had employed a Chinese cook for many years, and one day, after a particularly good dinner, decided to raise the man's wages.

When the Chinese received the increased money at the end of the week, he was very surprised. "Why are you paying me more?" he asked his master.

"Because you have been such a good cook," returned his employer, with a smile.

"Oh," the Oriental frowned. "Then you've been swindling me for years, eh?"

The disappearance of a valuable challenge cup during a footballers' dance, at the Masonic Hall, Oxford, caused commotion recently.

The cup was the inter-school challenge cup, which had been won by the Minto Hotel team, and during the evening the health of the winners was drunk in it. At midnight it was found that it had disappeared, and the loss was reported to a police inspector.

A taxi driver told the inspector that he had seen a man running down High-street with the cup in his arms, but did not interfere as he recognised the man as a member of the club. Finally, the missing cup was traced to the Randolph Hotel where a local comedian explained that he took it away as a practical joke.

KING'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATIONS.

The 1st Mountain Battery, Hongkong-Singapore Brigade, Royal Artillery. After the first seven guns had boomed out, a feu-de-joie was fired by the Somerset Regiment, drawn up on the Praya. This was repeated after each seven guns until the Royal Salute had been completed. The ceremony proper at the Cenotaph concluded with three cheers for His Majesty the King.

The March Past.

The march past commenced about 10.15, being headed by a detachment of the Royal Navy and Royal Marines. While the march past was in progress, H.E. the Governor stood in front of the Cenotaph and took the salute, the Guards of Honour and the detachment of Somerset on the Praya remaining in their former positions.

The following took part in the march past, in addition to the Royal Navy and Royal Marines: 12th, 20th and 21st Heavy Batteries, Royal Artillery. 2nd, 4th and 5th Heavy Batteries, H.K.S.B., R.A. Royal Engineers (including the Chinese detachment in the 40th Fortresses Co.). Royal Corps of Signals. 2nd Bn. King's Own Scottish Borderers.

Royal Army Service Corps. 2nd/15th Punjab Regt. Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps. Hongkong Male Corps. 1st Mountain Battery, H.K.S.B., R.A.

The band of the Somerset Regiment played for the march past in the case of units not possessing bands of their own.

After the last unit had given the salute, His Excellency the Governor, left for Government House, again escorted by the Motor Cycle Section, Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps.

The Route March.

The troops continued on a route march through the Chinese part of the city proceeding by way of the Praya to Hillier Street, Bonham Strand and into Queen's Road Central. Their progress was watched by huge crowds of spectators lined up along the entire route.

The ceremony at the Cenotaph had for its background a colourful harbour where ships of all nationalities were dressed for the occasion. Even a tiny yacht anchored off Queen's Pier had brought out its flags for the celebration.

Shameen Celebrations.

Monday will be observed as a Bank Holiday in Shameen on the occasion of the King's Birthday, and the following is the day's programme:

10 a.m.—Divine Service at Christ Church, Shameen.

10.30 a.m.—Parade of His Majesty's naval forces and of the Shameen Municipal Police.

11 a.m.—His Britannic Majesty's Consul-General will be "At Home" to all British subjects, his foreign friends and their ladies, at his residence.

Noon.—The British community will be "At Home" in the Canton Club to foreign friends and their ladies.

3.30 p.m.—Children's party on board His Majesty's ships.

9.30 p.m.—Variety show in the Canton Club Theatre.

There will also be a cricket match in the afternoon between Shameen and the men of the West River Patrol. This will be played over at Fati and should prove rather amusing, most of the Shameenites not having touched a cricket bat since their school days. —Our Own Correspondent.

SAM KU WEST.

RETURN OF POPULAR ARTIST.

Hawaii's "Kreisler of the steel guitar," Sam Ku West, has, together with the "Harmony Trio," been engaged to appear for a return season during all performances at the Queen's Theatre from Thursday to Saturday next. This talented company appeared with great success at the Queen's Theatre a few months ago and theatre-goers will doubtless be glad to hear of their return engagement. The following is a brief and interesting account of the artist's career.

About two years ago Sam Ku West left Honolulu on the Tono Maru, an unknown music boy in overalls with a steamer ticket for Hongkong, in search of Miss Irene West and her Royal Hawaiian, then touring the East. Sammy had run away from home with the courage of flaming youth for a musical career. He found the company and it was not long before he climbed to a prominent place with the show. The press acclaimed him as "a wizard of the guitar." But Prince George, who

THE ARCTIC IN THE FUTURE.

SAFER FLYING AREA THAN EUROPE.

Oxford, May 7. Mr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, who lectured on the future of the Arctic regions, stated that during all historical times civilisation had been moving northward, and every period of 1,000 years had seen the centres of power further north.

"It seems to be a principle that when civilisation is advancing in quality its centres are moving away from the equator, and when civilisation is retrogressing in quality its centres are retreating towards the equator," he said.

"The present centres of civilisation appear to be where the average temperature is between 48 and 52 degrees Fahrenheit. That includes London, Paris, Berlin, New York, Chicago, and Toronto.

"Irrespective of its natural resources," he continued, "the Arctic is bound to be developed during the next quarter of a century as a thoroughfare for air traffic, for the short flying routes between East and West lie across the Arctic. It is full of islands, and the flying conditions on the average throughout the year are better than in the temperate zone.

Little-known Conditions.

"That view is not yet fully realised by the promoters of flying because of the tremendous prejudice there has been against the Arctic. These good conditions have been completely verified by my flying experience. Commander Byrd, who was unable to find Paris after flying across the Atlantic, had no difficulty in finding the North Pole, and returning to his starting point. Sir Hubert Wilkins, when he flew the full diameter of the Arctic from Alaska to Spitzbergen, had no trouble in finding his way. When Captain Amundsen flew there in a dirigible he had trouble in Europe before he entered the Arctic, and in Alaska after he left it, but none in the Arctic itself.

"Even Nobile, although he wrecked his airship, was picked up after forty-eight days, whereas his men would have been drowned in less than forty-eight minutes if the accident occurred over the Atlantic.

"More than 50,000 miles have been flown inside the Arctic Circle without a single loss of life," he declared.

The Arctic was not nearly so poor in natural resources as people had assumed. It would, he believed, become increasingly a meat-producing country. Already reindeer meat was regularly served in most of the New York hotels and restaurants, and he calculated with the next half century reindeer would provide the largest single source of the world's meat supply.

Eggs and Bacon.

"It will not, however, be adequate to supply the meat demand on the present scale, which means that the world is faced with compulsory vegetarianism. If you eat eggs and bacon you are wasting six-sevenths of the corn eaten by the chickens and pigs which supply it.

"Seven vegetarians can be supported for one meat eater. That is why tropical and temperate lands are bound eventually to devote to vegetables all the land except that which is too dry to grow them. But in the Arctic you can produce no cereals, and that is why the Arctic will be the last retreat of the meat eaters."

BOILER EXPLOSION.

THREE PEOPLE KILLED IN MISHAP AT SHANGHAI.

Shanghai, June 2. Three persons were killed, one a woman, in a boiler explosion at the Tien Chang Paper Mill, in the Yangtszepoo district, the boiler bursting through a galvanized roof and alighting on another roof nearby. —Our Own Correspondent.

A stabbing affray occurred on the high seas on board the a.s. Seistan, and was reported to the police on the arrival of the vessel here yesterday. A seaman was stabbed in the head and left cheek by a passenger, who apparently was running amuck with a knife. The assailant, a Chinese returned emigrant, was secured and handed over to the local police when the Seistan arrived. The injured man was removed to the Government Civil Hospital.

happened to be in Singapore, settled the matter of title by referring to Sammy as "Kreisler of the steel guitar." New, in addition to the guitar, Sam Ku West has taken up the harp and has the distinction of being the first member of his race ever to attempt to play this difficult instrument.

BRICKS MADE 50 CENTURIES AGO.

ONE DUG UP AT UR HAS FINGER PRINT OF ANCIENT.

Building materials used by workmen in the Valley of the Euphrates more than 5,000 years ago, just placed on display at the Architectural and Allied Arts Exposition in Grand Central Palace, provide a strange contrast to the elegance and variety of modern architectural products shown in other exhibits.

The ancient bricks, some of them dating from 3500 to 3000 B. C., were excavated at the site of the historic city of Ur, situated somewhat more than 100 miles above where the Euphrates empties into the Persian Gulf. The Tower of Babel was probably built of bricks similar to those in the exhibit, according to experts. One of the oldest bricks bears two finger prints left upon the soft clay by some long-forgotten brick-maker.

The oldest bricks are about 14 inches square and date from 3500 to 3000 B. C. They were taken from the temple of Ur. There is no inscription upon these, and they are believed to be among the earliest bricks submitted to the fire process for hardening.

Next in antiquity are the moulded flat bricks of the Third Dynasty of Ur, 2300 to 2180 B. C. These bricks are from the houses of the Moon God at Ur in the time of King Ur-Nammu. They bear the inscription: Ur-Nammu, King of Ur, builder of the house of Nannar.

The next group are from the dynasty B. C. 2180 to 1955, during which period King Ishme-Dagan reigned. They bear the royal stamp, and on one of them is the inscription: "Ishme Dagan, caretaker of Nippur, who exalts the head of Ur, the promoter of Eridu, priest of Ezech, King of Isin, King of Sumer and Akkad, beloved husband of Innina."

Another of the bricks bears the inscription: "For Anu, King of the gods, his king, Ur-Nammu, King of Ur, planted the great garden, and built the shrine in a pure place."

"But you understand, Mr. Van Brush, I only want to pick up enough of this so I can teach it this summer."

KING'S ILLNESS.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE POSTPONED.

London, May 31. A bulletin at Windsor Castle, signed by Dr. Henry Martyn (Surgeon Apothecary to H.M. Household at Windsor), Sir Frederick Stanley Hewitt and Lord Dawson of Penn, says:

"The King passed a good night. The abscess so far is following a normal course which, in the nature of things, must be tedious. We accordingly advise that the Thanksgiving Service should be deferred to a later date. As His Majesty's condition is now satisfactory there is no necessity for the issue of bulletins daily." —Reuter.

CHANNEL SWIMMERS.

PREPARING FOR A MASS ATTACK THIS SUMMER.

Deal, May 8. There is to be a massed attack by swimmers on the Channel this year, and already there is some activity in the various camps on this part of the coast. Most of the contestants to be first across will start from this side, which is generally considered to be the more difficult swim.

The swimmers include E. H. Temme, Norman Derham, Miss Ivy Hawke, Miss "Laddie" Sharp, Mrs. Gill, E. Vierkotter (Germany), J. Helmy (Egypt), G. Michel (France), and C. Toth (U.S.A.), all of whom have already swum from France to England and are anxious to win the gold cup offered for the first competitor who succeeds in swimming from England to France.

Other entrants include the American twins, Berenice and Phyllis Zitenfeld, who are due in England this month, Miss Beatrice Spears, the young Deal swimmer, and little Joan Brunton, the 11-year-old Dover girl. It is expected that Dr. Dorothy Logan and Miss Gleitze will also try their luck again.

SIND MERCHANTS.

APPRECIATION OF A DECEASED LEADER.

In the presence of a goodly gathering of members of the Sind Hindu Merchants' Club, Mrs. G. P. Daswani, the wife of the President of the Club, performed an interesting ceremony on Saturday afternoon in the Club Hall, unveiling a portrait of the late Mr. Narain Daldas.

Among those present beside Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Daswani were Mr. V. Shewaram, President of the Sind Hindu Merchants' Association, Mr. F. P. Milwani, Secretary of the Association, Mr. N. Jernamdas, Secretary of the Club, Mr. Soonderam, Dr. Nidu, Mr. and Mrs. Ruttonjee and Miss Ruttonjee.

Addressing the gathering in Sind, Mr. Daswani expressed his pleasure at the honour done to his wife and himself—to his wife at being asked to unveil the portrait of such a noble man as the late Mr. Narain Daldas, and to himself the privilege of speaking on such an auspicious occasion. His feelings of pleasure, he said, were, however, tinged with sadness because although they were there doing honour to a noble compatriot, yet they were denied the pleasure of knowing that he was still alive to carry on the good work that he had already done.

A Full Life.

Mr. Daswani then related to his hearers the life of the late Mr. Daldas, saying that although a comparatively young man, at the time of his death, he had not only done a great deal for his compatriots wherever he went but had also done many wonderful things in business as well as in public and social work.

A great philanthropist, the late Mr. Daldas donated with an open hand and with the spirit of goodwill to almost every cause which was for the good of his fellowmen.

Whilst dwelling on the kindness of the deceased, said Mr. Daswani, they must not forget that their Club, the Sind Hindu Merchants' Club, was founded at his suggestion, and it was partly due to his liberal donation that the Club had become a success that it was. As long as the Club continued to exist, the speaker concluded, its members would always respect the name of Narain Daldas not only as one of their benefactors but also as a man who in life was everything that a man ought to be.

The Unveiling.

Before asking his wife to unveil the portrait, which was put up in a conspicuous corner of the Club Hall and covered with satin, Mr. Daswani asked the gathering to stand for a few moments in silence as a sign of respect for the late Mr. Daldas. Mrs. Daswani then performed the ceremony, revealing a large bust photograph of the deceased framed in black.

Tea was then served. One of the merchant princes of India, the late Mr. Narain Daldas was only 28 years of age when he died at Karachi last year less than six months after his return from a round-the-world trip with his wife, in the course of which they paid a visit to Hongkong. Deceased had a branch firm in Hongkong for a few years but it was closed last year after his death.

The late Mr. Daldas was a very energetic man and despite the heavy call on his time by his large business he was able to perform the work of a public man in India in which capacity he was a Municipal Councillor and Honorary Magistrate of Karachi.

THE FRENCH TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS.

MISS HELEN WILLS WIN THE WOMEN'S SINGLES.

Paris, June 2. Expectations were fulfilled today at Auteuil, where the French hardcourt tennis championships are being played, when Miss Helen Wills the American lady champion, won the Women's Singles with ease.

Yesterday afternoon the Women's auxiliary of the South China Athletic Association, at a meeting in the club room, was declared organized and a committee of thirty young Chinese women will later announce the election of officers. More than 150 of the 400 pledged members attended.

One of the activities decided upon was a company of girl guides complying with local regulations, in addition to swimming, tennis, roller ball, and other games, provided that rooms become available, while a club room on the 6th floor of the China Building will be provided for the exclusive use of the lady members. Music, ping-pong, and a tea parlour will be some of the means of recreation. Special facilities are to be made to accommodate lady members at King's Park, where the South China Athletic Association has a pavilion and six tennis courts, and at North Point, where a permanent bathing club is being erected at a cost of more than $30,000.

The South China Athletic Association, formed more than 15 years ago, has nearly 4,000 members. With the addition of the auxiliary and the recent increase in the membership, it is understood another request will be made to the Government for the allotment of more grounds for its activities.

STATE BURIAL OF SUN YAT-SEN.

CLIMAX TO A WEEK'S CEREMONIES.

Nanking, June 1. The climax to a week of elaborate ceremonies was reached this morning when at half past ten the remains of Dr. Sun Yat-sen were solemnly laid in their final resting place in the magnificent mausoleum on Purple Mountain.

Delegates of the most important Powers and representatives of various offices in the National Government and the Nationalist Party, and of public bodies from all over China, took part in the state funeral procession which started from the Central Party Headquarters at 4.20 p.m. to the accompaniment of a salute of 101 guns from Lion Hill Fort. Aeroplanes circled above, heading the procession.

Mrs. Sun Yat-sen, dressed in black, rode in a heavily screened and closed carriage behind the specially built motor-bearers which was elaborately decorated with white silk.

The cortege was over two miles in length. It presented a most colourful spectacle. Members of the Diplomatic Corps walked to the right of the hearse and leaders of the National Government and Nationalist Party walked to the left, escorted by about 200 armed soldiers.

At the Mausoleum. At the Drum Tower, the diplomats fell out to continue their journey by motor cars, meeting the procession again at the foot of the grand staircase to the mausoleum at 9.30 p.m.

The diplomats, Chinese notables and numerous sightseers lined the staircase while the catafalque was borne upwards.

A very interesting scene was witnessed when Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, observing the pallbearers to be very fatigued, helped to pull the catafalque up the last flight of stairs.

After a brief service, the casket was lowered into its permanent resting place.

All present stood in respectful silence and bowed towards Dr. Sun Yat-sen's remains as they came to their final rest.

Thus ended the most brilliant pageant in the history of the Chinese Republic.—Reuter.

Shanghai Observances.

Shanghai, June 1. All official, commercial and financial activities in Shanghai are suspended to-day, while all business-houses and places of amusement are closed, as a mark of respect to the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, whose State Funeral in Nanking is taking place to-day.—Our Own Correspondent.

A Geneva Sentiment.

Geneva, June 2. Coincident with the Sun Yat-sen obsequies, the International Labour Conference has intimated, via the Chinese delegation, their warm sentiments of friendship towards the Chinese people at "this great moment in China's history."

Doctor Chu, on behalf of the Chinese delegation, expressed thanks, and declared that China was firmly resolved to co-operate in the work of progress and social justice which the International Labour organisation was accomplishing.—Reuter.

AN ARMED RAID.

FIVE MEN ENTER BOATYARD AT CHEUNGSHAWAN

Under the pretext that they had come to search for arms, five men armed with revolvers gained admittance to the Shing Hing Boat-building Yard, Cheungshawan shortly after three o'clock yesterday morning, and after holding up the inmates they made off with booty of $650.

The master of the shipyard, Tsang Cho, states that he and his family and eleven employees were on the premises. He was awakened by the noise caused by the robbers. Carrying electric torches and five revolvers, the men pointed the arms at the boatyard people, declaring that they had come to search for arms and demanding that the master hand over the key to his safe. On his refusing, one of the intruders struck the master with the butt of his revolver. The keys were then given up and the safe was opened and ransacked. While four men were searching the boatyard, one of the gunmen, holding two weapons, went up to the first floor and held up the eleven folks, who offered no resistance.

The robbers made off in an unknown direction, with booty consisting of $300 in Hongkong banknotes, a pair of gold bangles set with pearls, and other jewellery. It is understood that $150 in notes was picked up by the master on the floor of his room, and apparently the money had been dropped by the robbers. The men spoke the Hakka dialect.

Sofia, June 1.

The American millionaire, Mr. Van Lear Black, who left Croydon on a flight to Tokyo at dawn yesterday as arranged, has arrived here and left for Aleppo to-day.

Mr. Van Lear Black is accompanied by five persons and two pilots.—Reuter.

[A cable from London, dated May 22 stated:—The American millionaire, Mr. Van Lear Black, leaves Croydon on a flight to Tokyo on May 31, via India and Bangkok, returning via Russia. The aeroplane which was used on Mr. Black's recent trip to the Cape, is now in the final stages of overhaul at Amsterdam, after an accident in the South of France, which concluded the Cape flight.]

half mast as a token of respect for the late leader. The Government offices and several leading local firms and Clubs also had their flags at half mast.

A memorial service for Dr. Sun Yat-sen was held by St. Paul's College in St. Paul's Church, the Rev. Li Ying-pu presiding. The knell being rung, the boys fled into church to observe two minutes' silence. The "Dead March" in Saul was played and then "The Hymn for China" sung. Mr. Wong Lu-king, the senior Chinese master, delivered an address on "The History and Life of Dr. Sun." The service concluded with prayer by the Rev. A. D. Stewart, Headmaster.

THE REPARATIONS SETTLEMENT.

ONLY ONE QUESTION OUTSTANDING.

Paris, June 1.

The Reparations Experts Committee has reached an agreement on all the German reservations. Only the Belgian claim for compensation in respect to the German marks issued in Belgium during German occupation now remains to be settled.—Reuter.

Out of Bank Profits.

Paris, June 1.

The agreement reached by the Reparations experts in regard to the last twenty-two years annuities provides for their payment out of a sinking fund and the profits of the International Bank, provided that, in the event of the United States reducing her debt claims, Germany shall profit to the extent of two-thirds, and the Allies to the extent of one third.

The clause granting Germany a conditional moratorium on the payments provides that the German moratorium shall not affect the sums exceeding those in regard to which Germany enjoys a moratorium in her own debt agreements with France, and thus secures the principle that she will not pay more than she has received.—Reuter.

LOCAL WEDDING.

INTERESTING CEREMONY AT CATHEDRAL.

A wedding of considerable interest was solemnized at St. John's Cathedral on Saturday afternoon, the contracting parties being Mr. W. Gordon Robertson, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robertson of Liverpool, and well-known locally as the Manager in China of the United Melanges Co., Ltd., and Miss Doris V. Mann, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mann, of London.

The Very Rev. Alfred Swann, Dean of the Cathedral, officiated, the function taking place in the presence of a large number of friends.

The bride was given away by Commander J. B. Nowell, D.S.O., R.N. She looked charming, in a gown of ivory tulle with pearly girdle and trimmings, tight-fitting bodice and a long skirt and train. A wreath of pearl and orange blossoms was worn over the tulle veil. She wore shoes of ivory satin with pearl trimmings, and carried a bouquet of arm lilies and maidenhair fern.

Miss Irene Butler, who attended as bridesmaid, was attired in a mauve net frock, of which the waistline was encircled by a gold girdle. She wore a picture hat to match, and gold kid shoes. The colour effect was extended to a bouquet of mauve orchids and gold ribbon which she carried.

Mr. H. Bos, of the Netherlands Consulate-General, discharged the duties of "best man."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Hongkong Hotel, where Mr. and Mrs. Robertson received the congratulations of many friends. Congratulatory cables had also been received from their friends at home and abroad.

The honeymoon is being spent in Japan, the bride's going-away dress being of blue flowered chiffon with blue ermine hat to match.

CANTON'S AIM.

GENERAL CHAN'S MESSAGE TO THE PEOPLE.

General Chan Mingshu, Chairman of the Government Council of Kwangtung province, has published a message to the people of Kwangtung, a summary of which appears below:

After referring to his unavoidable absence for two months from Canton, owing to the accident which he met in Hongkong, General Chan expresses his happiness to be back among the people, but his joy is neutralized by the existing struggle with Kwangsi and by the suffering which this conflict has brought upon the province. He is gratified to find that by their loyalty and patriotism the Cantonese have kept their province intact and uprooted the seeds for further disturbances.

General Chan explains that after the Kwangsi party had rebelled against the Central Government, the Kwangsi general, Wang Shao-hung, tried to inveigle the Cantonese into the fight. But, fortunately, by his timely arrival at Hongkong, Chan Chai-tung and he, after due deliberation, proclaimed their determination to keep Kwangtung out of the war. After their defeat in Hupoh, the Kwangsi generals Li Chung-yen and Pei Chung-hsi returned to Kwangsi, mobilized their troops and invaded Kwangtung. Hence, in order to uphold the authority of the Central Government and to defend their own province, the Cantonese were forced into war with Kwangsi.

Compromise no Solution.

The ancients have said, "Militarism is bad; war is dangerous." In the elimination of any evil, speedy action alone can prevent its spread. The Central Government having decided to send a punitive expedition against the Kwangsi leaders, the Cantonese had consequently no other recourse but to do likewise. Some people believe that it would be better to avoid war by seeking salvation in compromise, but war is like a dangerous tumour, which can be cured only by an operation.

The aim of the revolution is to bring happiness to the people through unification of the government, which principle involves the recognition of one supreme head—the Central Government. The military leaders, who oppose the Central Government by relying upon the strength of their armies, must be suppressed, otherwise there would be no end to civil strife, and the happiness of the people would be forever endangered. In the rise of every dynasty, the spirit of militarism could be subdued only after the occurrence of repeated attempts of rebellion.

Unification the Object.

To lessen the burdens of the people is the purpose of the Revolution, and its success depends upon the cessation of military disturbance. The Kwangtung province is the birth place of the revolution and cannot therefore be allowed to become the centre for counter-revolutionary activities. Thus, for the maintenance of the country's unification, the Cantonese have embarked upon this war.

In 1924, General Chan introduced Li Chung-yen, Pei Chung-hsi and Wang Shao-hung into Kuomintang. That was the beginning of their connexion with the revolutionary movements. Thereafter, he collaborated with Pei Chung-hsi in many important affairs. In 1927, after the Communist trouble had been quelled, General Chan left the civil and military power with the Kwangsi leaders, in the hope that they would appreciate his sacrifice, surrender their feudal ambition, and become thoroughly identified with the Kuomintang. After the success of the Northern expedition, Pei Chung-hsi, while stationing at Peking and being supported by the Kwangsi clique at Wuhan, began to intrigue with the Northern militarists for the overthrow of the Central Government.

General Chan was sent by President Chiang Kai-shek to Wuhan for the purpose of preserving the harmony in the party. But although aware of the machinations of the Kwangsi clique, he was confident that they would not aim at open rupture, and for that reason, he gave the Central Government his guarantee that they had no rebellious intentions. The Kwangsi Clique.

The Kwangsi clique is composed of Li Chung-yen, Pei Chung-hsi and Wang Shao-hung. Now a native of Kwangsi is not necessarily a member of the clique. This was clearly demonstrated in the war against Wuhan, when the Generals Li Ming-shu and Yang Teng-hui turned against them. Furthermore, the Kwangsi people are the citizens of the Chinese Republic; the Kwangsi army is the army of the Chinese Republic. As soon as these leaders are removed, the Kwangsi clique will simultaneously go out of existence. General Chan regrets that it was due to his introduction that their expulsion has become necessary, and to his inability to foresee long ago the events that have now come to pass.

In conclusion, General Chan addresses the following points:

To surrender all military power to the control of the Central Government.

To effect complete separation between the military and civil administrations.

To render impossible the exploitation by any individual of territories and people.

Lastly, to maintain an incorruptible Government in Kwangtung.

CHINA SITUATION BOMBSHELL.

CHIANG MAY JOIN FENG AND YEN ABROAD.

TEST OF SINCERITY.

Shanghai, June 3.

Consternation has been created in political circles by the receipt of a report that Marshal Chiang Kai-shek has announced his willingness to join Marshal Feng Yu-shiang and Marshal Yen Hsi-shan and retire from politics, and leave the country with them, in the event that they are sincere in their professions to carry out this project.

The intentions of Marshal Feng remain obscure, but it is reiterated in Peking that Marshal Yen definitely intends to retire and to undertake a tour abroad, providing Feng accompanies him.

If Feng does not fall in with this plan, Yen will withdraw to his native village at Wootai and there build up a model Prefectural Government after the example set by Mr. Tong Shao-yi, when that veteran statesman withdrew from politics a few years ago and proceeded to his native district of Chungshan in Kwangtung.—Our Own Correspondent.

NO VERDICT IN THE MORRIS CASE.

Mr. Justice Horridge suggested that the jury should reconsider their answers to questions seven and eight.

The foreman remarked that, in reconsidering those questions, they might also succeed in agreeing on an answer to the first question. The jury then retired again.

This time the jury were absent for forty-five minutes, and on their return the foreman said that they had not agreed upon answers to questions one, seven, and eight.

The Judge—You cannot now come to a conclusion upon numbers seven and eight?

The Foreman—No. Number one must be answered to allow of our considering seven and eight.

The jury were then discharged.

Sir Boyd Merriman, the Solicitor-General, for the defence, asked that the matter be argued next term.

Mr. Justice Horridge—All sorts of things might happen before next term.

Sir Boyd—I know. Somebody else may have to argue it instead of me. (Laughter.)

[A reference to possible after-the-election changes in the Government.]

The Judge agreed to hear the arguments next term.

HATCHETS & FIGHTING IRONS.

EIGHT NORTHERN CHINESE CHARGED.

Mr. Hin-shing Lo appeared before Mr. E. W. Hamilton this morning to represent eight Northern Chinese who are charged with the possession of lethal weapons, namely, three hatchets and seven fighting irons.

Sergeant M. Murphy said the defendants were searched by a constable who had viewed their presence in a group at Morrison Hill Road with suspicion, and the weapons were found hidden on the first three defendants.

Counsel informed the Court that, as far as he was concerned, his case would not take more than half-an-hour. He understood the police desired a remand.

Defendants were remanded until Thursday, at 11.30 a.m.

TYPIST AWARDED £100.

LIFE-LONG SCARS INFLICTED BY HAIRWAVING PROCESS.

Dorothy May Clifton, aged 19, a typist, of Wick-lane, Old Ford, E., was awarded £100 and costs at Lambeth County Court against Doris Smaje, a hairdresser, of Kensington Park-road, for a scalp wound received while her hair was being permanently waved.

Mr. Cloutman, for Miss Clifton, said that she complained that the curls were extraordinarily hot. On going to a doctor she was told that she would have scars on her head for life. Wounds on the back and front of the scalp were plainly visible. Miss Clifton said that since the injuries her nerves had gone to pieces. She had been knocked down by a bicycle as the result of her nervous condition. As a short-hand typist she was earning £25 a week.

Judge McCleary said that there had been considerable negligence.
